In the Huddle

By Steve Snapp

No Big Ten school has ever won six consecutive conference football titles. But, then, no one had ever won five in a row until Ohio State did it last year. That's probably why Woody Hayes figures his Buckeyes have as good a chance as anybody in the 1977 race.

"Sure we figure to win it, we always do," declared the veteran coach, who has captured 12 championships in 26 tries. "When you think any other way, you don't have a chance."

But while Woody is confident, he is not overly so. He knows if the Buckeyes are to win today's conference opener with Minnesota, they must play better than they did in last week's 10-0 win over Miami.

"Ten points won't win very many conference games," he agreed. "We have to get better offensively, both running and passing the ball.

"Defensively, we played well but there is still room for improvement there, too."

Even though the Buckeyes have taken eight straight from Minnesota, the visiting Gophers cannot be taken lightly according to assistant coaches Dave Adolph and George Chaump, the men responsible for knowing all there is to know about today's foe.

"Minnesota is a good offensive football team that relies basically on the run," says Adolph, the Bucks' defensive line coach. "They graduated a fine quarterback in Tony Dungy, but they still have plenty of punch left. Their line is solid, big and veteran, and they have speed, speed, speed in the backfield."

Chaump is equally impressed by the Gopher defense.

"They have nine regulars returning from last year," he points out. "They are touting their linebackers as the best pair in the Big Ten and their secondary has great talent and fine speed."

The Gopher defense probably won't have to face two of the Buckeyes' premiere running backs, fullback Jeff Logan and reserve tailback Ricky Johnson. Both were injured last week and are listed as doubtful participants in today's contest.

The injury to Logan and Johnson was one of the low points of last week's triumph. One of the high points was the performance of tight end Jimmy Moore.

Moore, a 6-5, 248 pound junior from Tempe, Ariz., has had more than his share of bad luck the past two years. Regarded as one of the best tight end prospects ever to enroll at Ohio State, Big Jim was on his way to living up to that billing when a knee injury prematurely ended his freshman year. Surgery corrected the injury but last fall the knee flared up and he could play in just three games, and then only sparingly, before he had to call it quits for the year.

More surgery followed and there was speculation that Moore's promising football career might be ended. But Jim has held up just fine this fall. So well, that he started Saturday and played almost half the game.

"I was tired and sore after the game, but I can't remember ever feeling much happier," he said during a mid-week practice. "I was a little rusty, but I'll get better. It's just nice to be back."

It's nice to have you back Jimmy.

LOOKING FOR NUMBER SIX — Head Coach Woody Hayes and assistants Esco Sarkkinen, George Hill and George Chaump have the past five Big Ten championship trophies in front of them, but they are all looking toward 1977 and trophy No. 6.

First Ohio State Sports Hall of

Highlighting today's halftime festivities will be the induction of twenty-three of the greatest sports names in Ohio State history into the Buckeyes' new Sports Hall of Fame. The presentation of plaques to either the recipients or their representatives will be made by Varsity "O" President Ralph Waldo, with an assist from Athletic Director Hugh Hindman and AD Emeritus Ed Weaver.

Waldo, Hindman and Weaver have worked diligently since last March (when plans for the Hall of Fame were first announced) to select a charter class that is representative of Ohio State's fine overall athletic program. They, along with Varsity "O" board members Oscar Thomas Jr., Russell Owen, William Hoyer, Dr. Robert Bowen, Dr. Sol Maggied, Bill Hosket, Pandel Savic and Aurelius Thomas, screened literally hundreds of nominees before settling on the twenty-three inductees who will be enshrined today in what will become an annual fall ceremony.

"We are extremely proud of this class," declared Waldo. "These are some of the outstanding names in the history of intercollegiate athletic competition."

Five members of the charter class, L. W. St. John, Dr. John W. Wilce, Mike Peppe, Larry Snyder and Ernie Godfrey, were chosen on the basis of their years of service to Ohio State either as administrators or coaches.

St. John was for all intensive purposes the school's first athletic director and also served as baseball and basketball coach for the Buckeyes. It was he who had the foresight to build mammoth Ohio Stadium and it was he who purchased the land for University Golf Course, even though he was heavily criticized for buying so far away from the main campus.

St. John, who also was instrumental in establishing the NCAA Basketball Tournament, hired Wilce as his football coach in 1913. Wilce coached until 1928, leading the Buckeyes to a 78-33-9 record and three Big Ten titles. Ohio State made its first Rose Bowl appearance under Wilce, traveling to Pasadena in 1921.

The ever-popular Peppe served as swimming and diving coach from 1930 to 1963. When he retired, the little swim swami owned 33 major team titles, including a still unprecedented 11 NCAA championships. During his reign, OSU won 179 dual meets and lost only 39. Peppe, whose swimmers and divers captured 312 individual championships, twice was head coach of the U.S. Olympic Team, in 1948 and again in 1952.

Snyder was the Buckeyes' track coach on two different occasions. His first stint was from 1932 to 1942 and his second from 1946 to 1965. During his stay in Columbus, he led OSU to six Big Ten titles, coached eight different world record holders and numerous Olympians, All-Americans and national champions. He twice was an assistant coach at the Olympics and was head coach of the USA squad in 1960.

Godfrey lettered in football and baseball as an undergraduate at Ohio State, but is best known for his service as an assistant football coach for the Buckeyes. Ernie coached at OSU from 1921 until 1961, working under seven different head coaches during his colorful career.

Three of the 18 athletes selected were chosen from the pioneer era, meaning their classes graduated before 1931. Those three, Chic Harley, Wes Fesler and Johnny Miner, all earned All-America honors in a time when that sort of recognition was especially hard to come by.

The legendary Harley was Ohio State's first three-time football All-American and the man responsible for much of the football mania that currently exists in Columbus. Chic, who lettered in 1916-17 and '19, was probably years ahead of his time in terms of ability.

Fesler was also a three-time All-American, starring at end for the Buckeyes in 1928-29 and '30. A member of the National Football Hall of Fame, Wes was also head football coach for the Buckeyes, serving in that capacity from 1947 through 1950.

Miner was the Buckeyes' first basketball All-American. As a senior in 1925, he led OSU to a 14-2 record and the school's first ever Big Ten cage crown.

The remaining 15 selectees also were all All-Americans. They were taken from the Present Era category, which is the period since 1931. Only those athletes who have been out of school for at least five years were considered for selection.

Paul Ebert was the lone baseball pick. A three-year starting pitcher, he won 21 of 28 games during his career and was 13-4 in Big Ten play. His best year came in 1952, when as a sophomore he posted a spotless 7-0 record.

Besides Miner, Jimmy Hull, John Havlicek and Jerry Lucas were tabbed from the ranks of basketball.

Hull won his All-American acclaim in 1939 when he led the Bucks to a 16-7 record, the Big Ten title and a second place finish in the first-ever NCAA Tournament. As a senior in 1939, he was the Big Ten's leading scorer.

Havlicek, who currently ranks as the fourth most prolific scorer in professional basketball history, was an All-American as a senior in 1962. More noted for his defensive ability in college, he still managed to score 1,223 points during his career, in which the Buckeyes won 78 of 84 games.

Lucas is regarded as the best center ever to play for the Buckeyes and one of the great pivot men the game has ever known. Jerry was the Buckeyes only three-time All-American and was twice MVP in the NCAA tournament. He still ranks as OSU's all-time leading scorer and rebounder. He and Havlicek led the Buckeyes to three Big Ten titles, the 1960 NCAA title and two second place finishes.

Also chosen from football were Les Horvath, Bill Willis, Vic Janowicz, Howard "Hopalong" Cassady and Jim Parker.

Horvath was an All-American quarterback in 1944 when he became the Buckeyes' first Heisman Trophy winner. He led OSU to a perfect 9-0 mark and the national title that year, accounting for 1,248 yards in total offense.

Willis was a teammate of Horvath's, lettering in 1942-43 and '44, and winning All-American tackle acclaim as a senior.

Janowicz won the Heisman award as a junior and is regarded by many as the best all-around athlete ever to play at Ohio State. Brilliant as a passer, runner and punter, he epitomized the triple-threat football player.

The feats of Cassady are known to all Ohio State fans. One of the magic names of the game during the early and mid 1950's, Hop was a four-year starter for the Buckeyes, winning the Heisman Trophy in 1954 when OSU won all ten of its games enroute to an unblemished 10-0 record and the national championship. Cassady, who rushed for 958 yards as a senior was a consensus All-American choice in both as a junior and as a senior.

Parker also was a two-time All-American and in 1956 was voted winner of the Outland Trophy, given annually to the nation's outstanding college lineman. An offensive guard, he is considered one of the top linemen ever to play for the Buckeyes, and is a member of the national Hall of Fame.

Only one golfer was tabbed in the first class, but what a golfer! Simply regarded as the best the game has ever known, Jack Nicklaus must surely have been one of the easiest choices the selection committee had to make. Currently the holder of an unprecedented 16 major titles and the all-time leading money winner on the PGA tour, Jack captured the NCAA title as a junior in 1961. The Columbus native was also an All-American that year.

Another easy choice was the incomparable Jesse Owens, who along with George Simpson, was a track selectee. Owens, another athlete that was well ahead of his time, set three world records and tied a fourth in one meet as a sophomore. He then went on to earn even more acclaim at the 1936 Olympics where he captured four gold medals. Even though more than forty years have elapsed, Owens is still considered one of the all-time greats in track.

Simpson also was an Olympian, competing in the 1932 Games. George was an All-American in '32, when he set world marks in the 100 and 220-yard dashes.

The remaining three picks are all from swimming and diving — Ford Konno, Bill Smith and Al Patnik.

Konno, a distance freestyler, won 31 major titles during his brilliant OSU career that spanned a four-year period, 1952-55. Besides nine Big Ten titles and 16 AAU crowns, he won six NCAA crowns and set five world records.

Smith was a four-time All-American freestyler, competing for the Buckeyes in 1943, '47, '48 and '49. He set seven world records, won 15 AAU championships, seven NCAA titles and two Olympic Gold Medals during his career. In four years of varsity competition, he was undefeated.

Patnik is considered one of the great college divers of all time. During his career he won 20 major titles and completely dominated college diving during the late 1930's.

Those are the twenty-three inductees in this year's class. Certainly a worthy lot, to whom we all owe a great debt.

HEAD COACH WOODY HAYES

Woody Hayes and football have become synonymous during the past three decades. So, too, have Woody Hayes and winning.

Hayes, now in his 27th year at Ohio State, is the fourth winningest coach in college football history with 222 victories in 31 seasons. Only Alonzo Stagg, Pop Warner and Bear Bryant have more triumphs than the 64-year old Hayes, who spent three years at Denison and two at Miami (O.) before taking over the Buckeyes in 1951.

Entering the 1977 season, Hayes had won 189, lost 54 and tied 9 at OSU for a winning percentage of .768. In Big Ten play he owns a 139-34-7 record and has captured 12 conference championships. No other conference school comes close to either figure during the past quarter of a century.

Currently Hayes, who has coached longer in the Big Ten than anyone except Stagg (41 years at Chicago) and Bob Zuppke (29 years at Illinois), is working on a string of five consecutive conference titles and an unprecedented five straight bowl appearances by the Buckeyes. A Big Ten crown in 1977 would make Ohio State the first team in conference history to win six consecutive championships.

Overall, Hayes, a native of New Philadelphia, O., has taken nine OSU teams to bowl games and produced national championship squads in 1954, 1957 and 1968. His 1969 squad, which posted a 9-1 mark is generally regarded as one of the finest college football teams ever assembled.

Since Woody has coached at Ohio State, the Buckeye school has led the nation in average home game attendance for 21 of the last 26 years and finished second the other five seasons. At the end of 1976, Ohio State owned a string of 50 consecutive home sellouts.

Hayes has spent his entire coaching career within the state of Ohio. After graduating from Denison in 1935, he accepted a position as assistant football coach at Mingo Junction where he remained until being named head coach at New Philadelphia in 1938. He won 19, lost 10 and tied one at New Philly before joining the Navy in 1941.

Following his discharge, Hayes returned to Denison to embark upon a collegiate coaching career. In the time since, he has become one of the most respected and most successful coaches the profession has ever known.

BACK OF THE WEEK

RON SPRINGS was named as the Buckeyes' Back of the Week after running for 114 yards in 27 attempts last week against Miami. Both figures represent individual highs for the 6-2, 196-pound junior, who hails from Williamsburg, Va. Springs tallied the Buckeyes lone touchdown against the Hurricanes, scooting 23 yards for the tally.

BUCK OF THE WEEK

KELTON DANSLER walked off with eight-and-a-half Buckeye Leaves and the Buck of the Week award for his ten tackle performance in the Buckeyes' 10-0 win over Miami. Included in those ten tackles were three stops behind the line of scrimmage, which resulted in a minus 25 yards. Dansler, a junior from Warren, plays the boundary end for the Buckeyes.

What goes on in the huddle?

As an observer of college football, you've undoubtedly often asked yourself and other fans, "What goes on in the huddle?" When the teams congregate before the ball is snapped, what are the athletes really saying to one another?

Easy, someone might say. They're contemplating their impending rendezvous with the cheerleaders, mapping out plans on how to hit dad for another few bucks from the family coffers or deciding which agent they should hire to handle negotiations with the pro clubs. Everybody knows that the huddle serves the same purpose as the get-together on the street corner on Saturday night.

Not so, say those really in the know. The NCAA football feature series managed to get the true confessions of a secret agent, reporting from behind—and sometimes under—enemy lines. Here's the lowdown on what really goes on in the huddle.

Our agent recalls one sorry incident which occurred not too long ago. A time-out and some subsequent confusion in lining up had created a surplus of offensive players on the field.

"Listen, you guys," the observant quarterback noted to the bowed heads in the huddle. "We've got 12 guys out here and the ref is going to nail us sure as heck. We'll run a wide end sweep in the direction of our bench, so one of you guys just get out of bounds and stay there."

The sweep was run, our agent recalls; but when the club huddled again, the quarterback noticed something again was awry. This time too many players were anxious to avoid the 12-men-on-the-field penalty. The quarterback counted helmets and said, "Gee, guys, now we've got only 10 men here. Now tell you what we're gonna do. We run the same sweep and when you get past our bench, just grab the first guy you see and pull him onto the field . . ."

Time-out for chalk

Then there was the time, our agent remembers, when his team's quarterback, forgetting the game being played was on artificial turf, pulled a little stick out of his pocket to diagram a play in the dirt. Not to be outdone, he called a time-out, went to the bench and asked the coach for a piece of chalk. They don't see that quarterback around much anymore.

There was another quarterback on the club one season who couldn't figure out how to stop the other guys from talking too much in the huddle. Guys would come back after running a play and say, "Hey, I can get open on the right side," or "Remember me? I like to run with it every now and then, too." Stuff like that.

Finally, the coach decided he would have his players line up in an open huddle. The San Diego Chargers popularized it in the pros a few years ago. That's the huddle where the quarterback stands in the middle with two rows of five guys each lined up on either side of him. The theory is that the quarterback can do all the talking; and if other guys open their mouths too much, the coaches on the sidelines will notice it.

Well, it didn't work. I guess that particular quarterback just didn't have the leadership qualities the coaches were looking for. The other guys would come back to the huddle and, instead of asking the quarterback to call their number, would mutter under their breath, "Throw it to me or I'll get you outside after practice."

Sometimes there's even a problem in getting out of the huddle. Our agent remembers the time when the center led the charge to the line of scrimmage, a few yards from paydirt. He was so anxious to get the play started that he tripped over himself and accidentally propelled the ball 20 yards downfield.

After a frantic scramble through the record book, the referee called "delay of game," and the offensive team never did get to the goal line.

Colorado deaf-mute

A rather unusual and heart-warming incident will unfold at the University of Colorado this fall. Gary Washington, a sophomore tailback who was listed as a second-stringer on the depth chart last spring, is deaf and mute.

In order for Washington to know the plays, the Colorado quarterbacks have worked at learning to call plays vocally and by sign language simultaneously. The Buffaloes will run Washington out of the "I" and feel his big advantage is that there's no way he can become rattled in front of 70,000 fans at Boulder's Folsom Field, CU's home stadium.

Austin Peay University had a deaf-mute player a few years ago in Bonnie Sloan, a defensive tackle. Sloan was drafted by the St. Louis Cardinals on the 10th round in 1973 and played four games in the NFL that year.

Playing a defensive lineman's position, Sloan could react to an opposing team's play by observing the direction in which the play was going.

As a tailback, Washington will need to know exactly where he should be and where his teammates should be on every play in which he's involved. This will be a challenge not only for the young man, but for his teammates as well. In spring practice, things seemed to work well. The big concern, reports CU quarterback coach Dwight Wallace, was in having the quarterbacks flash visual signals along with their oral commands, thereby avoiding the risk of penalties for delay of game.

Meet the OSU Board of Trustees

Howard D. Sirak

Dr. Howard Sirak was appointed to the nine-member Board of Trustees of Ohio State University May 19, 1971, for a nine-year term. He is the board's vice chairman for 1977-78.

He was a professor in the Division of Thoracic Surgery of the University's College of Medicine and head of the cardiovascular service at Ohio State's Medical Center before resigning to accept the appointment as trustee.

Dr. Sirak has long been interested in the problem of mechanical heart-lung apparatus. In 1955, he organized the "open-heart" surgical team for treatment of patients with heart defects. After 14 months of work, a modified version of the apparatus in use elsewhere was applied to human cases. Since 1957, more than 3,000 patients have undergone operations at University and Children's Hospitals in which the apparatus was employed.

Dr. Sirak received his bachelor's degree from the University of Pennsylvania, his medical and master's degrees and general surgical training at Ohio State, and thoracic surgical training at Bellevue and Presbyterian Hospitals of Columbia University, New York. He also served for two years on a Navy surgical team assigned to the Marines in Korea.

Dr. Sirak is a diplomat of the American Board of Surgery and the American Board of Thoracic Surgery, a fellow of the American College of Surgeons and the American Association of Thoracic Surgery, and a member of several American surgical societies.

He is the author of the book "Operable Heart Disease," and more than 65 articles for medical and other scientific journals.

Dr. and Mrs. Sirak and their children live in Columbus.

Gov. James A. Rhodes spoke at the dedication of Wendell D. Postle Hall at luncheon ceremonies in the Ohio Union ballrooms in April. The University's dentistry building at 305 W. 12th Ave. was named for dentistry Dean Emeritus Postle, seated with his wife next to the governor, by OSU trustees last October.

OSU President Harold L. Enarson testified before a budget subcommittee at the Ohio Statehouse about the University's fiscal needs as legislators readied the state budget for the next biennium.

OSU says Thanks! Government Day

It was on March 22, 1870, that the Ohio General Assembly chartered what was to become The Ohio State University. Franklin Countians then sold bonds to buy land for it.

Those 19th Century acts of faith — and the generous investment in the University since then by the people of Ohio and their elected leaders — have produced one of the world's great institutions of higher learning.

Today is Government Day in Ohio Stadium, recognizing the thousands of people in city, county, state and national government who, with the support of their constituents for more than a century, have helped turn Ohio State into what its president, Dr. Harold L. Enarson, calls the state's greatest single asset.

Ohio State University has been a training ground for many of the state's public officials.

Alumni number 23 members of the Ohio General Assembly, four Ohio Supreme Court Justices, two state administrative officials, three U.S. representatives from the state and U.S. Sen. Howard Metzenbaum.

Columbus Mayor Tom Moody earned a business degree, summa cum laude, from Ohio State. And five of his eight cabinet members are OSU graduates.

Franklin County commissioners Michael J. Dorrian and Harold M. Cooper also attended Ohio State.

A distinct Ohio stamp is on the 1862 Morrill Act, which cleared the way for creation of Ohio State and other land-grant colleges and universities. Ohioan Benjamin F. Wade led the U.S. Senate drive for enactment of the law, which three years earlier had been vetoed by President Buchanan.

One national leader to visit Ohio State this year was energy chief James Schlesinger (at left). He addressed spring quarter graduates, then met with University experts on energy use, conservation and planning in a discussion session at the Fawcett Center for Tomorrow.

The College of Engineering's research projects include studies of solar energy that will ultimately benefit the citizens who make such research at state universities possible. Here, Dean Donald Glower of OSU's College of Engineering explains the principles of the demonstration solar house to visitors at the Ohio Expositions Center. The house was designed at the University and built by the Homewood Corp.

through in Ohio Stadium

Established on 331 acres of the Neil Farm as the Ohio Agricultural and Mechanical College, the new institution became The Ohio State University by legislative act in 1878.

A year earlier, the institution had received its first assistance, $4,500, from the Ohio General Assembly. Legislative aid last year reached $120 million.

New, important funds were made available for some of the University's work in 1887 with the passage of the Hatch Act, designed to assist farmers and to develop better agricultural practices.

The then-substantial sum of $25,335 was appropriated by the General Assembly in 1888 to pipe gas to some buildings and for gas street lights on campus.

Other key dates for Ohio State were 1891, when the Hysall Act by the General Assembly provided for a special levy, and 1913, when state lawmakers established the Colleges of Medicine, Dentistry and Engineering.

Ohio State now offers 225 undergraduate majors in 17 colleges. And, as the state's major center for education at the graduate level, it provides 84 programs leading to doctorates and 112 leading to master's degrees.

The Ohio State University Alumni Association, with 73,000 dues-paying members, is the largest in the country.

So on this Government Day 1977, the University salutes the thousands of government officials — national, state and local — and the people of Ohio, whose faith and support have made this The Ohio State University.

GARY TRANQUILL — Defensive Backfield

Gary Tranquill joined the Ohio State football staff in March, 1977. Prior to Ohio State, Tranquill had 15 years of coaching experience, all on a college level, and chiefly as defensive secondary coach.

A native of Pennsylvania and a graduate of Avella High School, near Uniontown, Tranquill attended Wittenberg University in Springfield, Ohio. He won eight varsity letters, four each in football and baseball. He was a standout quarterback in football, winning Little All-America honors in 1961. He earned a B.S. degree in 1962.

Following graduation, he remained at Wittenberg for eight years, serving two seasons as a graduate assistant, during which time he obtained an M.S. degree, and six years, 1964-1969, as defensive backfield coach.

In 1970, Tranquill went to Ball State in a similar capacity and the following year he went to Bowling Green, serving as defense coordinator and secondary coach.

In 1973 he went to the Naval Academy, where he coached four years. At Navy, Tranquill was in charge of the pass offense, working with quarterbacks and receivers.

Tranquill and his wife, Shirley, have a daughter, Kari, and a son, Chris.

“Some Ohio State alumni are farther from the 50-yard line than others.”

But all have that same intense pride in Alma Mater that marks Buckeyes everywhere. That's why The Ohio State University Alumni Association—the official alumni organization—has more than 80,000 dues-paying members—and why it is the largest by far of all dues-paying alumni organizations in the world! Buckeyes grow everywhere—and the Alumni Association serves Buckeyes everywhere. Whether they're at the game today—or cheering at some distant spot, Ohio State's organized alumni have one overriding purpose: to help our Ohio State University.

Chevy Chevette

43^{MPG} / 31^{MPG}

EPA HIGHWAY EPA CITY ESTIMATE

Smile: You've just read the highest EPA estimates for any car built in America. Ever.

Chevy Chevette with available 1.6-litre engine and standard manual transmission.

EPA figures are estimates. The mileage you get will vary depending on your type of driving, driving habits, car's condition and available equipment. In California, EPA figures are lower.

And keep on smiling, there's more.

Chevette has more head room than many mid-size cars. More horsepower this year.

A hatchback that opens up over 26 cu. ft. of carrying space.

One of the tightest turning circles of any car in the world.

A diagnostic connector for quick electronic service checks.

A service manual written for do-it-yourselfers.

A unitized body that's corrosion-protected.

And nearly 6,000 Chevy dealers everywhere.

If 43 and 31 are your kind of figures, stop by a Chevy dealer soon.

He has some more numbers you'll like too: Chevette's price.

It'll drive you happy.

Add leadership to your college schedule.

College military science courses are courses in leadership development. They offer you management experiences which will benefit you in any career, civilian or military.

You can take the first courses as a freshman or sophomore without obligation. Advanced courses, in your junior and senior years, lead you to a position of responsibility as an officer in the active Army or Reserves.

As an Army ROTC student, you'll also have the opportunity to compete for 3 and 2-year full tuition scholarships. And you'll earn nearly $2000 during your last 2 years of college.

Don't wait until after college to get practical management experience. Add leadership to your class schedule now.

Midboe Keys Minnesota Defense

by Craig Thompson

Life has been moving by quickly for Minnesota captain Steve Midboe the past few years. Less than five years ago, the Dallas, Wisc., native was throwing the shot put in high school farther than anyone else in the state and playing football and basketball at Barron High School. He was unaware that someday he would be the captain of a Big Ten football team.

In the fall of 1973, Midboe first met with disaster. Head injuries forced him to sit out a year. Again in 1974, head injuries pushed him to the sidelines. A healthy sophomore season in 1975 proved to be the year that showed Gopher fans just what the young man could do when physically capable.

A strong, aggressive rusher, # 78 led the team in sacks with 11 for a total of minus 51 yards that year. His best game, perhaps of his career, was versus Ohio State when he accounted for 16 tackles, two on sacks for minus 18 yards. He ended the year with 71 total tackles.

Last season as a junior, Midboe started 10 of 11 games and amassed 68 tackle points.

Quiet off the field, Midboe carries the same demeanor on the field, too. Not much of a holler guy, the Minnesota captain leads by setting the example. But don't let the exterior fool you. All the time, Mid-boe gives better than 100% and is apparently unaware of any prowess an opponent has shown.

In the big game versus Ohio State as a sophomore, the Buckeyes' Scott Dannelley, felt Midboe did a fine job against him. In praising Midboe after that game, Dannelley said he "was very tough to get a good angle on."

Being the competitor he is and with his size, 6-foot-4 and 230 pounds, Midboe makes a most formidable opponent. In fact, the better his opposite and the Gopher opponent, the better Midboe plays.

Much like his whole collegiate career as a gridder, with the ups and downs and the seasons sitting and waiting for next year, Midboe seems to have taken his captain's duties in stride.

The night Gopher coach Cal Stoll tried in vain to reach Midboe and inform him of his new role, Midboe was in the library studying and it wasn't until he returned home later that evening that he found out. After a short transition period to recover from the shock of the new honor, Midboe silently accepted his new role and the barrage of publicity.

To Steve Midboe, anything that happens these days is all just a part of the game.

Teaching excellence – a Buckeye tradition

The University annually presents several $1,000 Alumni Awards for Distinguished Teaching, sponsored by the Alumni Association and the Development Fund, to recognize and give evidence of the importance placed on superior teaching at Ohio State and to provide encouragement and incentive for teaching achievement. A committee that included student, faculty and alumni members selected this year's eight winners based on nominations from those same groups. Two of Ohio State's 1977 Distinguished Teachers are profiled here.

George Kalbouss

George Kalbouss, associate professor of Slavic languages and literatures, has completed a book on the plays of the Russian symbolists, but he's not done tinkering with it.

"I'm trying to make it a little more lively right now, to bring out all the little ironies in this period," he said. That's the same attitude he brings to the teaching that won him a 1977 Distinguished Teaching Award — start with all the facts, then bring them to life.

The books that line Dr. Kalbouss' office walls share the shelves with ringbinder notebooks that are his detailed lesson plans. In 10 years of teaching, the last four at Ohio State, he has compiled more than 25 of those thick notebooks and he constantly updates them.

"I feel very strongly that one needs to be prepared to go to class," Dr. Kalbouss said, "but at the same time, you have to give the impression that it's casual and easy."

His natural sense of humor and informal manner lend a certain amount of innate flexibility to his classes, but he doesn't let that interfere with covering the subject.

"I always use a podium, and have the lesson plan right there, but I also walk around," he said. "I know where I ought to be in the lesson plan, and I just walk by the podium to check up on myself, note the next topic, then walk away and expand on it. I don't like the idea of just coming into a class and chatting. The students' time is too valuable."

Dr. Kalbouss, a graduate of Columbia and New York Universities, hands out questions students can refer to during lectures. "The ones who learn in class are the ones who ask questions, not the ones who just take notes," he said. "And if they know the right questions, they will be looking for the right answers."

"I'll try anything to make the students remember things. After all, that's what we're trying to accomplish."

Carole Widick

Ever since her first classroom lecture, Carole Widick has been getting better at teaching. "That's because I had no where to go but up," says Dr. Widick, an assistant professor of education and a 1977 winner of a Distinguished Teaching Award.

Her first experience, during doctoral work in counseling psychology at the University of Minnesota, wasn't exactly distinguished.

"I just died," she says. "Fifty passive faces just sat there."

After that, says Dr. Widick, since 1974 a member of the Special Services faculty, "I decided to take 'learning how to teach' very seriously. 'Dying' made me look at what I'd been doing and to search out ways to apply what I knew to the classroom."

"What I try to do is get some sense of what students bring to class at the start of each quarter. Then I focus my teaching by relating it to what the students know. I think most content material can be made relevant and interesting if you can find a way to 'hook' it onto something real."

She uses a variety of teaching styles. "I will do some lecturing, lead some discussion, relate experiences and direct simulations and role-playing," she said. "It all helps me to find where my students are, and that's important to me because I'm an eliciting teacher. For me, interaction is better. I'm not at all comfortable just tossing ideas out with the hope that they will land in the right places."

Her years of teaching, she says, have taught her two things. "The first is that teaching is hard. It takes a great deal of preparation and thought. In that sense, it hasn't gotten any easier," Dr. Widick said.

"Still," she added, "there are times when a class just seems to take off. An idea or concept grips everyone and we follow it through. Something awfully good happens in those cases. And it's fun."

Buckeye Soccer Team Opens Tomorrow

Javier Castillejos, shown above, led OSU in scoring last year, when the Buckeyes posted a 6-6-1 record.

Coach Jerry Bell sees a lot of similarities between last year's Ohio State soccer team and this year's edition of the Buckeyes, who open their 1977 season tomorrow at Indiana-Purdue (Ft. Wayne).

"Going into the season, we should be a very fine defensive team, especially in goal," reported Bell, "but we have a lot of question marks on offense which scares me a bit."

The lack of a consistent scoring punch did the Buckeyes in a year ago as they scored just 21 goals in 13 games on their way to a 6-6-1 record. While most coaches might have found some satisfaction with the finish, Bell was disappointed with the mark, considering the Buckeyes got off to a 5-0-1 start and tallied 19 goals in that span.

"I can't explain it," said Bell. "We played well during those games, but we just couldn't put the ball in the net. I just hope we don't have to go through another season like that again."

Bill Boger and Larry Smith, two lettermen from last season, will head up the Buckeye defense and will be two of 11 lettermen in the Buckeye stable this season. Additionally, Klaus Lambeck will move to defense from the forward line. Another possible starter in Bell's 4-3-3 alignment will be junior Scott Lilly or promising freshman Eric Powell.

Greg Anderson, who recorded three shutouts in the nets in 1976, returns for his junior season, but will face a serious challenge for the starting spot from George Wukelic and Mike Grimes. Anderson is a two-year regular from Worthington, while Wukelic, also a letterman last season, hails from Upper Arlington.

"Having experienced goalies is the key to any soccer team and I feel we have three exceptional ones," Bell added. "If we can get some help at the other end of the field we will be okay."

Most of the offensive punch is expected to be supplied by forwards Frank Viscarro, Ardie Singh and Juan Acevedo. Viscarro and Singh will play on the wings, while Acevedo, a former high school All-America, will be at the inside striker position. Bell expects help from freshmen Joe Kunish and Tom Korb. Also, Vlade Janakievski, a letterman last year, could help. However, Janakievski is a member of the Buckeye football squad and, as such, will probably not spend much time with the soccer squad.

Lettermen Marcus Collier and Chris Sharrett return at midfield and will probably hold down two of the starting spots with Perry Nystrom a third starting possibility. The best of the newcomers at this spot appears to be Eric Johnson from Worthington.

"We have the potential to be better this year than we were a year ago," summed up Bell. "We don't have the individual stars we had last year, but we have better balance and better depth."

A 14-game slate is on tap for the booters with the first home game one week from today against the University of Cincinnati starting at 10:00 a.m. Other opponents appearing on the home slate for 1977 are Denison, Wooster, Cleveland State, West Virginia and Bowling Green. Highlighting the road schedule is a October 14-15 trip to the Big 10 Classic, being hosted by defending NCAA runner-up Indiana.

At the end of this season, this team will be number one.

The Kodak All-America Team

It's one of the oldest and smallest teams in college football. It doesn't have a win-loss record. It doesn't set rushing records, and it has never scored a touchdown. Yet, at the end of the 1977 season, the Kodak All-America Team will be the number one team in college football.

What this team will have is the 22 very best players of the season. Twenty-two men who have earned the right to be called All-American. No amount of popularity or publicity can put a player on this team if he doesn't deserve to be there. It is a distinction which is earned with outstanding ability, sportsmanship and leadership. And these players have to prove themselves to the toughest coaches of all, the American Football Coaches Association.

The Kodak All-America Team is

The 1977 Kodak All-Americans
...watch for them.

KODAK SPORTS PROGRAM

the only team which represents the choice of the more than 2,000 college and university coaches who are the American Football Coaches Association. Their standards are exacting, for this is a team that for 88 years has included the greatest names in college football.

The 1977 Kodak All-America Team has yet to be selected. The field is large, for there are more than 12,000 players from which to choose. But when the season ends, a handful of men will have distinguished themselves, and earned the honor of being on the number one team in college football.
